

Honey Johnson, CFPIM, CIRM, C.P.M., CSCP, CLTD, CTSC

Honey Johnson has practical business knowledge from more than four decades of supply chain experience in a variety of industries. Honey's background includes master scheduling, production and program planning, distribution processing, as well as experience in software quality testing, education development and course delivery throughout operations management processes. Honey is able to bring world-class operations management techniques to customers and students. Additionally, Honey has extensive project management, ERP software sales and implementations experience, domestically and internationally.

Honey is currently Vice-President of Professional Development (Education) for the Colorado ASCM/APICS Chapter, having held the office of President several years and previous terms as Membership VP and Marketing Director and served on the former APICS Terra Grande District Staff. Honey actively instructs numerous APICS courses.

Honey maintains six professional certifications:

Certified Fellow in Production and Inventory Management (CFPIM), Certified in Integrated Resource Management (CIRM), Certified Purchasing Manager (C.P.M.), Certified In Logistics, Transportation and Distribution (CLTD), and Certified Supply Chain Professional, (CSCP), Certified in Transformation of the Supply Chain (CTSC).

Honey's education includes her Bachelor of Science degree in Social and Political Economics from Colorado State University.